

Gone to the War.
My Charlie has gone to the war,
My Charlie so brave and tall;
He left his plow in the furrow,
And flew at his country's call.
May God in mercy keep him,
My precious boy—my all.
My heart is pining to see him,
I miss him every day;
My heart is weary with waiting,
And sick of the long delay.
But I know his plow is sowing,
And I could not bid him stay.
I remember how his face flushed,
And how his eyes shone bright;
When the flock from the folds of Sumner
Lied the whole land with fame,
And darkened our country's banner
With the crimson hue of shame.
"Mother," he said, then, "I'll go,"
I felt his mute appeal;
I paused—if you are a mother,
You know what mothers feel,
When called to yield their dear ones
To the cruel bullet and steel.
My heart stood still for a moment,
Struck with a mighty woe;
A faint of death came o'er me—
But I sternly checked my weakness,
And firmly bade him "Go."
Wherever the fight is fiercest,
I know that my boy will be;
Wherever the deed is noblest,
Of the stout arms of the free,
May he prove as true to his country
As he has been true to me.
My home is lonely without him,
My heart bereft of joy—
The thoughts of him who has left me
My constant sad employ;
But God will not blush for her boy.

Poor Milkmen dry up Cows.
The great importance of having cows properly milked is very forcibly illustrated by facts stated in the following article, copied from the Boston Cultivator:
When I first commenced farming, I milked all my cows with my own hands; and the result was that no one in town could boast of having made more butter, according to the number of cows than we. I well remember of having a very noble cow for milk, which would fill a twelve quart pail twice a day; and that a friend while visiting was anxious to milk her. As I was well aware of the bad results of permitting a poor milker to milk cows that are accustomed to be milked by one faithful, regular hand, I unhesitatingly consented that he might milk her. The result was that he obtained about one-quarter less milk, than she was accustomed to give; and although I tried faithfully to draw more milk, after he had finished milking, my efforts were in vain; and it was several days before I could obtain from her the amount which she had been accustomed to give.
My manner of milking was to milk as fast as possible, until a cow was milked entirely clean. I was obliged at one time to stop milking for only a few minutes, and I found that the cow had drawn up her milk, and I could not get it that evening.
His manner of milking was very slow and easy; and after he had been milking about as long as I was accustomed to milking her, she withheld the remainder, and nothing that I have heard of could induce her to let it down again. This taught me the importance of employing one steady, regular hand at milking.
In the season of 1858 and 1859, my wife complained very much, when I did not superintend the milking, that she did not get near as much milk as when I was there to attend to it. Of course I could not be always there, at milking time. Then the milking would devolve upon a young man in my employ, who could milk as well and quickly as myself, when he had a mind to do it. But as he had inherited almost every characteristic of the human race, but the faculty of pleasing, or trying to please, or of making himself agreeable, even to the society of cows, when I was not there, for the slightest offense he would fall out with the cows, and beat them, and have them all in commotion. Then, of course, they would not give down their milk; for a cow has complete control of it, and she will not give it to a being she hates. All that could be said to him about being gentle with them, and milking fast while he did milk, and keeping his finger nails cut short, &c., had no more influence than this commotion will have on hundreds of other boys in their boyhood, who think they will make cows and everything else obey their commands.
In the spring of 1859, my wife insisted that I should do the milking. I attended to it as long as it was expedient, and then told this young man that he must attend to the milking, and try to do it right, and to have no difficulty with the cows. Well, in less than two days, my wife said, "What is the matter with the cows, that we get only about one-half as much milk as usual?"
The truth on this subject is, cows know much more than some persons think they do; and they will not love a milker who has nothing lovely about him, and who will not treat them kindly; and they will give him as little as possible.

Smoke-House—How Built.
A smoke-house should be square, its size varying from four to eight feet in diameter, according to the quantity of meat required to be smoked; the lower portion of the height of five feet should be of brick, with a door lined with sheet-iron. This part may serve both as an ash-house and as the proper place for the fire to furnish the smoke. Fire should be placed in the middle and covered with the material to be burned, so that the mass, being surrounded by ashes, may maintain the ignition for a long time, giving off the smoke with regularity. The upper part may be of wood, and the separation from the lower part by joists, covered with scantling, so as to leave space averaging three inches in diameter, for the ascent of the smoke. The height of this upper portion may be four feet, beside the ascent of the roof, and should be furnished with a door that may be locked, so that the door to the lower portion will not give ingress to the upper room. This separation between the two portions, will catch any pieces of meat which may accidentally fall, while the lower portion need not be locked, so as to enable the frequent removal of ashes from the house, and proper attention to the fire to be more readily performed.

Saw dust placed over a few ignited coals, will furnish the necessary material for smoking meat. The saw dust, however, should be from such wood as is most free from resinous matter; the pyro-ligneous acid evaporated, is of a better flavor from hard than from soft woods, while the amount of creosote, which is the preservative property, will be the same.—Working Farmer.

DR. HOOFLAND'S BALSAMIC CORDIAL
FOR THE SPEEDY CURE OF Coughs,
Colds, Influenza,
Whooping Cough, Hoarseness, Bronchitis, Pneumonia, Pleurisy, and all the pulmonary diseases arising from Cold, Impure Blood, and all the other causes of Coughs and all the other diseases of the Lungs.
The Balsamic Cordial is a Vegetable Preparation, combining the healing properties of a Cordial, producing a combination well adapted to the purposes intended, there are but few cases of disease which will not, at an early period, succumb to its healing and life giving properties. For ages, the treatment of pulmonary diseases occupied the greater portion of the attention of the scientific of the medical world, but none acquired more eminence in its treatment of these diseases, than the celebrated Physician, Dr. Hooftland, the originator of the Balsamic Cordial. His life was devoted to the production of remedies that would stand unvariedly before the world, and he succeeded, the American people are able to judge; and we positively assert, that no preparations that have ever been placed before the world, have conferred the same amount of benefits on suffering humanity, or have elicited so many commendations from all classes of society, as the remedies of Dr. Hooftland, prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson & Co., of Philadelphia.
The Cordial is designed for a class of diseases, general and local, fatal than any other, to which the people of this country are subject—those springing from a "cough cold." That entire authority, Dr. Hooftland, says: "I will not undertake to say that I will not undertake to say that Colds are to our inhabitants what the Plague and Yellow Fever are to those of other countries; but I can aver confidently that they are in disease or greater complexity and mortality than these latter."

Entirely Vegetable!
No Alcoholic Preparation!
DR. HOOFLAND'S CELEBRATED GERMAN BITTERS,
PREPARED BY
DR. C. M. JACKSON & Co., Philad'a, Pa.
WILL EFFICIENTLY CURE
Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Chronic or Nervous Debility, Diseases of the Kidneys, and all diseases arising from a disordered Liver or Stomach.
Such as Constipation, Inward Piles, Fulcra or Blood to the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heartburn, Disgust for Food, Paleness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swelling of the Head, Headache and Difficulty Breathing, Fluctuating at the Heart, Choking or suffocating sensations when in a lying posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots of blood before the Sight, Fever and Pain in the Head, Debility of the Digestive Organs, Puffiness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Back, Chest, Limbs, Ac., Sudden Fluxes of Blood, Burning in the Throat, and all the other diseases of the Digestive Organs, and will positively prevent YELLOW FEVER, BILIOUS FEVER, &c.
The Preparation, in calling the attention of the public to this preparation, does so with a feeling of the utmost confidence in its virtues and adaptation to the diseases for which it is recommended.
It is no new and untried article, but one that has stood the test of a twelve years' trial before the American people and its reputation and sale are unrivaled by any similar preparations extant. The testimony in its favor given by the most prominent and well-known Physicians and individuals in all parts of the country is numerous, and a careful perusal of the Almanac, published annually by the proprietors, and to be had gratis of each of their Agents, cannot but satisfy the most skeptical that this remedy is really deserving the celebrity it has obtained.
READ THE EVIDENCE.
From J. Newton, Branch, N. D., Editor of the Register.
Although not disposed to favor or recommend Patent Medicines in general, through distrust of their ingredients and effects, I yet know of no sufficient cause, why a man may not safely to the benefit he believes himself to have received from any simple preparation, in the hope that he may try the result to the benefit of himself and others.
I do this the more readily in regard to "Hooftland's German Bitters," prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson, of this city, because I was prejudiced against them for years, under the impression that they were chiefly an alcoholic mixture. I am indebted to my friend, Robert Shomer, Esq., for the removal of this prejudice by proper explanation for encouragement to try them, when suffering from great and long continued debility.
